Bus Bandh

▶ KSRTC strike total ▶ Private buses ply from Sub-Urban Bus Stand

An aerial view of the deserted City Bus Stand this morning. [Pic. by M.N. Lakshminarayana Yadav]

Mysuru, Apr. 7 (MTY&DM)- The ever-bustling KSRTC Sub-Urban Bus Stand in city wore a completely different look with Private and Mini-buses dotting the bus stand, as the indefinite stir launched by KSRTC employees, seeking fulfilment of their nine-point charter of demands, including implementation of the recommendations of the Sixth Pay Commission, began this morning.

The strike was a total success in the city and district, with no KSRTC buses operating from the Sub-Urban and City Bus Stands since morning. While the KSRTC Sub-Urban Bus Stand saw a beeline of Private buses and other public transport vehicles waiting to pick up passengers, who were however less in number as compared to usual days, the City Bus Stand wore a completely deserted look, with no passengers nor buses.

Although the Transport Unions of all the four Road Transport Corporations of the State — KSRTC, BMTC, NEKRTC and NWKRTC — had called the indefinite strike from today, most of the KSRTC buses were off the roads from last evening itself, which severely inconvenienced the passengers.

As KSRTC staff failed to report for duty from yesterday evening, the KSRTC was forced to cancel many of its night schedules. With KSRTC services having stopped, Private buses lined up in front of the bus stand last night. This created confusion among the passengers, as they knew little about the destination of the buses and the fares. The authorities, taking note of the plight and inconvenience of passengers, allowed entry of Private buses, Cabs, Tempos and other Public Transport Vehicles inside the Sub-Urban Bus Stand after giving them only temporary permission to ply.

As the Transport Unions had announced their indefinite strike in advance, the number of passengers at the bus stand was far less than any other normal days. Private bus operators were given permission to operate on routes like Bengaluru, Madikeri, Chamarajanagar, Kollegal, Tumakuru, Mandya etc., starting from Sub-Urban Bus Stand.

Vehicle checking to begin again

DCP Geetha

Mysuru, Apr. 7 (YDS&KS)- Following several complaints about people-friendly Policing by Traffic Cops being misused by a majority of motorists, vehicle checking drive will recommence from next week, said DCP (Crime and Traffic) M.S. Geetha Prasanna.

It may be recalled, rampant checking of vehicles by Traffic Police was stopped after the Hinkal accident and assault on Cops by the public.

Speaking to media persons yesterday, the DCP said it had come to their notice that many people were found riding bikes and scooters without wearing helmet, triple riding and using mobile phones thus causing problems to law-abiding public. Besides, these riders were putting the lives of others at risk. Hence, checking drives would be re-started from next week, the DCP added.

During checking drives, no cases would be registered by way of checking the documents, but cases pertaining to helmetless riding, negligent driving, triple riding and using mobile phones would be registered.

She said there were plans to install new traffic signal lights at some places and added that a proposal to install new CCTV Cameras has been sent to MCC.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

India moved past its last COVID peak of mid-September. While many questions remain about the comforting decline in the intervening months, new peaks will be no surprise to anyone who has been following the developments over the past month. General laxity in safe behaviours has been exacerbated by an election process in which all parties have thrown caution to the winds at mass rallies, sending absolutely the wrong audiovisual message even to States that are not in the election mode. And we live in an audiovisual age. The power of what is being communicated to the entire country by huge politically sanctioned gatherings where you have to search for masks with a microscope, cannot be understated. Being held for only five Assemblies, these elections are being followed with great interest everywhere after all. All political parties must act in a more responsible manner while campaigning in the State in the coming weeks. Ask the crowds to wear masks, distribute masks liberally, and while they are there spread the message about the goodness of vaccinations too. — In The Times of India

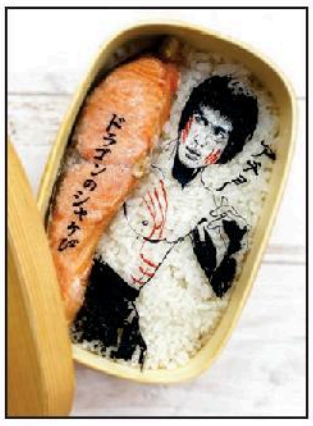
Artist creates detailed edible portraits



Hiroshima: A talented bento artist from Hiroshima in Japan, has been turning a lot of heads online with their incredibly detailed edible black portraits over a white rice background.

Nori bento is the most common forms of the portable Japanese snack, but one Japanese food artist has managed to turn the simplicity of the classic meal into an impressive art form. Miki Matsuura creates bento portraits so detailed it makes eating them a travesty.

She carves the edible black layer so meticulously that the resulting portraits look almost drawn on the white rice with a black pencil, like manga characters. But while the artist posts photos of her art on social media, they aren't made specifically for people's entertainment, but as an actual lunch for Miki's husband.

VOICE OF THE READER

Why not a public website for info on MCC expenditure?

Sir,

The Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) is on a taxation-spree. The citizens as tax-payers and consumers have the right to know how their hard-earned money is put to use. It is therefore necessary for the MCC to give the details of expenditure on a public website, so that the tax-payers shall not only come to know how and where their money is spent, but also shall be up-to-date with various types of works carried out by MCC.

This would also facilitate the tax-payers to give their constructive feedback about the work being done and to be done in MCC jurisdiction.

In this digital age such a website would cost MCC a pittance of its total expenditure, but goes a long way in being the first-of-its kind in the country for implementing such a novel, people-friendly, transparent administrative reform.

The media and the people of Mysuru should come out openly for this website without any further delay. For starters, the MCC may upload the information for the last three years, that is, from the year 2018-19 to 2020-21.

From... Paper Boy to Professor

Meet Dr. Shiv Kumar, who has climbed the ladder of success despite all odds

By Shyam Sundar Vattam

Dr. Shiv Kumar, Assistant Professor, MIT.

It was somewhere in March-April 2002, a boy who was working as a DTP Operator in a local Kannada daily, was composing the news item of a second rank holder of MBA (Master of Business Administration) course from University of Mysore (UoM). Suddenly, it flashed him, "Why shouldn't I?" But the enthusiasm died down when the pictures of poverty passed before his eyes.

Having discontinued studies nearly seven years ago, joining the college was like a big dream. With support from family, it was his friends who stood behind him and encouraged him. Despite a roller-coaster drive, the boy finished his Post-Graduation in flying colours.

That boy Shiv Kumar is now serving as an Assistant Professor in the Department of MBA at Maharaja Institute of Technology (MIT), Mysuru. He may have grown academically, but he hasn't forgotten the past when he strove hard even to eat a meal a day.

"If not for financial support from Vattam Thatha (veteran journalist late Krishna Vattam), Mahanand Sir and great support from Srikanth, I would not have been able to achieve my goal. If I am educated and have got a job in a reputed institution, it is because of my urge to do something. A person must be insulted and mocked at, then only he will take it as a challenge and achieve", Shiv Kumar told Star of Mysore without mincing words.

Hailing from a middle-class family, Shiv Kumar is the eldest of three sons to his parents Cheluvegowda and Sannamma, residents of B.M. Shrinagar. All three children studied at St. Matthia's School, thanks to his parents who were working in the school. His father worked as KSRTC driver for a brief stint.

After completing SSLC in 1995, Shiv Kumar joined Diploma in Mechanics. He studied for one year and dropped out as his parents could not afford the fees. Then he joined as carpenter at a handicraft-making unit where he was given a daily wage of Rs. 5. He worked in the same place for the next 2-3 years but with a hiked wage of Rs. 400.

In the meantime, his close friend, Srikanth, who worked as Teleprinter Operator in a Newspaper, advised him to attend typing class. However, Shiv Kumar quit the carpenter job after it affected his health condition.

Srikanth again came to his help and asked him to work as Newspaper distribution boy. He started working as a Paper Boy in 1998 by distributing various newspapers in the morning and Star of Mysore in the evening, in Vijayanagar, Gokulam and other areas. This fetched him Rs. 300 per month.

As the income was not sufficient, Shiv Kumar explained this to his close pal, Srikanth who along with another friend, Chandrashekar, got him a job in Mysore Tarpaulins. But, he hardly worked there for one or two months. At that time, Mahanand, who was running a small advertisement firm, offered him a job with a monthly salary of Rs. 500. This additional income came as a big relief for him to support his family.

During this time, a new local Kannada daily was started and he joined there as a DTP Operator. At the same time, another journalist from Mysuru offered him a job in the Technical Department of a Kannada TV Channel and asked him to attend a meeting in Bengaluru. Even after two meetings, he did not get offer letter. Later, he came to know that the company owner rejected his application since he was just SSLC pass.

Then, he continued to work in a Kannada daily as DTP Operator. One day, while he was typing the news of a girl who had scored second rank in MBA, an idea flashed through his mind, "Why can't I?" But the next question was, "How can I?" as he had quit studies seven years ago and there was none to guide him.

When he shared his wish, most of his friends encouraged him to take up studies. But he didn't have TC or any document to directly sit for 2nd PU examination from Maharaja's PU College. At this juncture, two senior scribes, Amshi Prasannakumar and Dayashankar Maili, helped him in getting those documents and paid the exam fees with penalty. After passing 2nd PU, his urge for pursuing higher studies increased. He got a seat for B.Com course in Kuvempu Trust College. When he informed this to an editor of Kannada daily, Krishna Vattam (Vattam Thatha) gave him Rs. 1,000 to pay fees. And this financial help continued till he completed Post-Graduation.

Due to stress, he took a break from paper distribution but continued to work as DTP Operator. During break, he took to teaching computer to children for which he was paid a small amount. He scored over 80 percent marks in final B.Com.

Then, Shiv Kumar was in a dilemma whether to study M.Com or MBA. He joined MBA course in GSSS in 2006 and once again faced problems to pay fees. The College CEO Suresh Rao helped him to get the education loan from a Bank. After passing MBA, he was without job for nearly six months due to recession. At this time, he took the computer classes at his friend's place. He also worked as Documentation Officer at Shikshana Foundation, Kanakapura and subsequently in the Labour Department on contract basis. In July 2011, he got a job offer as lecturer from the Department of MBA, Maharaja Institute of Technology. Along with teaching, he completed M.Com from Karnataka State Open University (KSOU) and cleared UGC NET.

He applied for Ph.D Degree in Management in 2016 on the subject 'Work-Life Balance of Journalists in Media Industry' under the guidance of Dr. M. Shivalinge Gowda, Department of Management, Vidyavardhaka Research Foundation, Vidyavardhaka First Grade College (VFGC) Campus, Mysuru and completed his thesis in 2021, a delay of almost one year, due to Corona pandemic.

Pursuing his passion in acting, Shiv Kumar acted in a short movie 'Rayabhari', a story on the plight of a farmer. Also, he learnt dance and started a Dance School to help students learn performing arts. "I have pedalled for almost 11 years (from 1995 to 2006). I haven't bought a two-wheeler. But I am using the bike left behind by my deceased younger brother," he sighs.

Dr. Shiv Kumar, presently working as Assistant Professor, Department of Management Sciences, MIT, Mysuru, will receive the Ph.D Degree in Management at the next Convocation of University of Mysore.

KSRTC strike total

Private buses operating from the Sub-Urban Bus Stand.

However, taking advantage of the absence of KSRTC buses, private bus operators reportedly charged a higher fare citing reasons such as hike in diesel prices, rise in Insurance premiums and increase in prices of spare parts.

A majority of commuters were travellers to Bengaluru. Private buses, Taxis and Maxi-cabs were found charging up to Rs. 400 to Rs. 500 per head to Bengaluru, which is twice the normal fare.

As no city buses operated from the City Bus Stand, local commuters were forced to take autos, cabs, taxis and other public transport vehicles to reach their destinations, which charged exorbitant fares taking advantage of the situation.

Meanwhile, KSRTC Rural Divisional Controller K.H. Srinivas told Star of Mysore that the authorities have allowed Private bus operators to operate from the Sub-Urban Bus Stand, taking note of the plight of commuters and the inconvenience being caused to them in the absence of KSRTC buses.

Pointing out that the KSRTC authorities have been in touch with the staff and workers, he said that efforts are still going on to convince the staff to call of the indefinite strike and return to work.

He further said that the revenues of the Rural Division, which was just beginning to look up over the past few months following the relaxation of COVID-induced lockdown, will now take a hit once again due to the strike. The Division is expected to suffer a revenue loss of Rs. 60 lakh per day on account of the strike, he added.

In this week's Pet Talk, Maneka describes about tick fever in dogs, its treatment

Pet Talk

Maneka Gandhi

My dog is sneezing. Does he have a cold?

There are many reasons that cause sneezing in a dog, which can vary from irritation in their nose, dust, house hold products, perfume, pollen, allergy from flea bite or food. It should be of concern, and the vet should be immediately contacted if it is canine influenza virus or if the dog, along with sneezing, is making a honking sound and seems unable to breathe, which could be a sign of a tracheal collapse.

What is tick fever?

Tick fever is a broad, generic term that identifies a group of diseases. This group includes Rocky Mountain spotted fever, Lyme disease, babesiosis and ehrlichiosis. The most common tick fever in India is Canine Babesiosis. Babesia Canis and Babesia Gibsoni are the only two species known to infect dogs.

Infection occurs when an infected tick bites a dog and releases the infection into the dog's bloodstream. It is not necessary that the dog has to have many ticks — even a single infected tick will give tick fever to a dog. New ticks pick up the infection by biting an infected dog. It is highly contagious, since the tick will find another host/ dog and spread the disease. The dog's immune system recognises the infected cells and destroys them, leading to anaemia.

What are the symptoms of tick fever?

Initial symptoms will show disinterest, lethargy. The dog will develop a high fever and may start looking pale. In the later stages, temperature reverses and will consistently stay below the normal range.

How do I confirm tick fever?

Only through a blood test. Purely on physical examination it's extremely difficult to diagnose either babesiosis or ehrlichiosis, because their symptoms mimic those of several other diseases. Do not allow the vet to rely on physical examination alone. Insist on a blood test.

How does it develop?

After the tick bites, the disease takes 10-21 days to develop. The dog becomes anaemic, and urine may turn visibly red because of the destruction of the Red Blood Corpuscles (RBCs). Tick fever may be classified as uncomplicated, or complicated — but both are serious conditions.

In uncomplicated cases, dogs are acutely ill with fever, depression, anorexia, pale gums and dark urine. Some dogs will become jaundiced, with yellow gums and eyes, and some may collapse suddenly.

In complicated cases, signs may include acute kidney failure, neurological disorders, swelling of the legs, or breathing problems. Shock, vomiting and death may also occur.

What is the treatment?

Treatment is aimed at clearing the infection and reversing the anaemia.

Day 1: Dog gets 1st Imizol / Berenil injection + Doxycyclin and fluids.

Day 1-21: Administration of oral Doxycycline (human med). Doxycycline is a part of the tetracycline family of antibiotics and is the only proven cure for tick fever. A typical dose is 100mg / 20kg of weight, twice a day. The dose may vary on the condition of the dog — please check with your vet. 1 Rantac (human med) to prevent acidity. IV as required on the amount of food the dog is taking and hydration requirements. Vitamin B and Vitamin K supplements.

Day 21: 2nd Imizol / Berenil injection. Perform another blood test to see condition and determine continuation of treatment.

NOTE

In the initial stage: In case the anaemia is severe and gums show paleness it is critical that IV is controlled, since high IV administration will cause the blood to dilute even more to the point of causing shock and eventual death of the dog.

During the treatment: Depending on the level of anaemia, the condition of the kidneys, blood transfusion may be recommended and produce good results.

After the treatment: In some dogs, a relapse may occur and so it is important to monitor the dog for up to 2 months.

Why do dogs sometimes bark without any reason?

All dogs bark, it is their main form of communication and it is completely normal. It's like asking why humans talk. Their reasons for barking, however, are not always obvious to humans. They may be barking because of separation anxiety, to establish and maintain territory, due to illness or injury, as a form of alarm, from frustration or seeking attention, as a greeting or as part of a social situation.

Why are some dogs' eyes always red?

No dog's eyes are always red. The most common cause of red eyes in dogs is the Environmental irritants and allergens; like people, elements in the environment, such as dirt, dust, and cigarette smoke, can irritate your dog's eyes. Your dog may also develop environmental allergies to trees, grasses, flowers, insects, etc. You should contact a vet, because the dog's cornea may develop an ulcer, if the dog scratches or the infection spreads.

Does hitting a dog on the nose hurt them?

First of all, it should be considered that a dog's nose is a sensitive area. Surely, his nose is quite powerful in detecting smells, but it's just made of cartilage and soft tissue and it has a blood supply of arteries and veins and nerves. It is therefore an overall delicate area considering its internal nasal structures. A traumatic injury in dogs can cause bleeding and pain that may require veterinary attention. So, dogs should not be tapped, smacked or punched on the nose with the hands, or other objects, for any reason.

Do dogs remember if you hit them?

If you hit a dog, he will probably forgive you but he won't forget. He will also probably think that he did something wrong. A dog may also learn that he should fear you after you hit him. They may not forgive in the way we understand it, but they do remember.

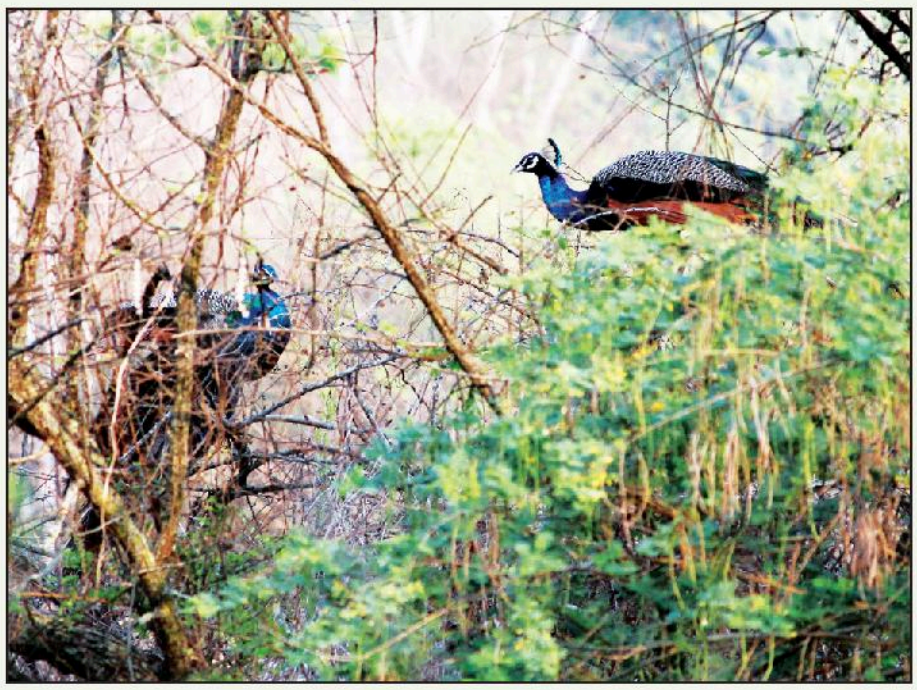
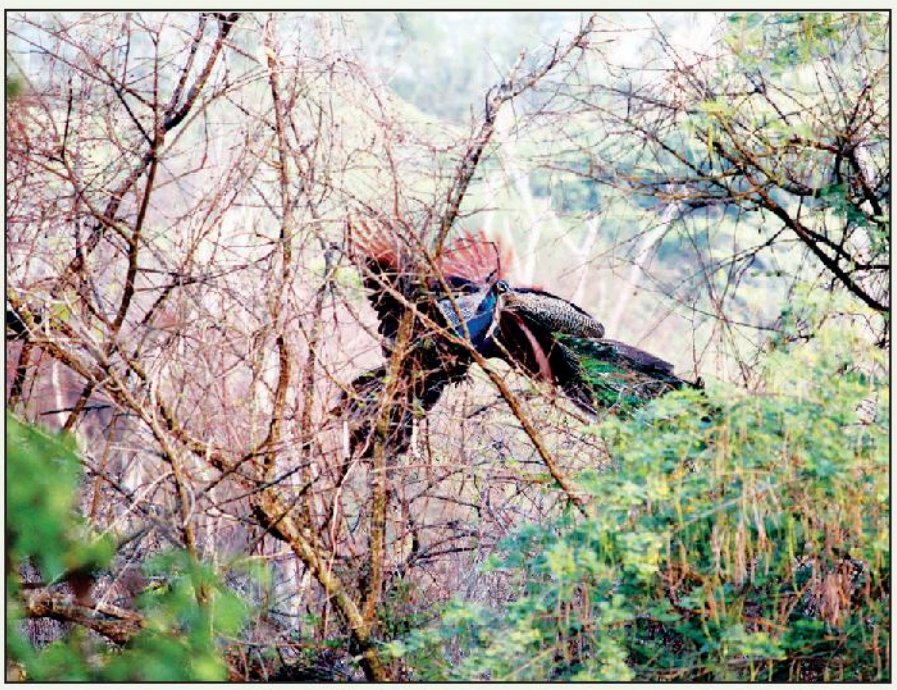
It's my territory...





This is my territory, get out from here," seems to be the warning given by the two peacocks which indulged in a territorial fight at Lingambudhi Lake in city. These photographs were captured by city wildlife photographer B. Chidaambaram on Mar. 30. Peacocks are both territorial and curious and an entire flock acting as a unit will investigate trespassers. They threaten unfamiliar humans, animals or things by charging at perceived predators while screaming and can attack with sharp spurs called "kicking thorns" with their feet.

Mysuru, Apr.7 (PM&DM)- MCDCC Bank (Mysuru-Chamarajanagar District Co-operative Central Bank) President G.D. Harish Gowda, who is also the Vice-President of Karnataka Apex Bank, has called upon women Self-Help Groups (SHGs) for judicious utilisation of bank loans extended to them.

RT-PCR test for MCC staff: A total of 194 staff undergo test

Mysuru, Apr. 7 (MTY&KS)- A total of 194 out of 3,373 employees of Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) underwent RT-PCR test at MCC premises here on Monday.

MCC Commissioner Shilpa Nag had asked the staff of all nine MCC Zones to mandatorily undergo RT-PCR test after a few staff, Mayor and few Corporators tested positive for COVID-19.

Though only 30 staff underwent the test till 12.30 pm, a total of 194 staff gave their swab samples till 4 pm yesterday. As the health staff have to conduct tests at various places across the city including at Town Hall and Dufferin Clock Tower, the MCC Commissioner had urged all the staff to get themselves tested at various RT-PCR testing centres in city without fail.

It was shocking to note that the MCC staff, who have been creating awareness about steps to be taken to prevent the spread of Coronavirus by wearing face mask, maintaining social distancing, washing hands frequently and take vaccine to boost immunity, were themselves hesitant to undergo the tests. It is to be known how many will undergo the mandatory RT-PCR test as instructed by the MCC Commissioner.

WORD OF THE DAY

Matzo

Pronunciation: maht-suh; mah-tsah; mah-tsaw.

Meaning: Unleavened bread in the form of large crackers, typically square and corrugated, eaten during Passover.

Origin: Most Americans are familiar with matzo "unleavened bread in the form of large crackers," because food stores routinely stock matzo on their shelves, especially just before Passover, which occurs in the early spring. Matzo comes via Yiddish matse (plural matses) from Hebrew maṣṣāh (plural maṣṣōth). Maṣṣāh comes from a West Semitic root meaning "to be or become sour, ferment." Matzo entered English in the mid-17th century.

Example: At its most traditional, matzo is made from just flour and water. But adding a little salt for flavour and olive oil for richness yields an airy, tender matzo that's easy to make.— Melissa Clark, "Easy Matzo," Nyt Cooking.

THE ODD WORD

Machicolation

Space between corbels in a parapet.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Mouth-watering

Meaning: If something looks mouth-watering, that means it looks tasty.

Origin: This phrase likely comes from the fact that when humans see or smell food, their mouths might produce more saliva than usual. The "water" mentioned in the phrase is not actually water, but saliva that the mouth produces. So when a person sees or smells some delicious food, they might begin to "water" at the mouth. Interestingly, saliva is made up mostly of water.

This phrase "mouth watering" has been used since at least the mid-18th century. Its meaning back then looks the same as today. For example, in the European Magazine and London Review, March 1784, the saying is written in a story and one of the characters from the story says:

"I see him this moment before me – his huge paunch blown up like a feather bed, his gouty legs resting on two down pillows, his eyes sparkling, his mouth watering, the napkin tucked under his rosy gills, and the whole pie devour'd in imagination before he had tasted a morsel of it."
